THE AUSTRALIAN GAZETTE JUN 21, 2013

French girl wins Best Job in the world!

Elisa Detrez from Paris has just become Queensland's new Park Ranger!
She beat more than 10,000 applicants from 196 countries, after competing in a series of varied challenges, from reef snorkelling and rainforest zip-lining* to ... talking to a crowd of frenzied journalists!

But Elisa Detrez knows that even if it is the Best Job in the World, she will have a lot of things to do once she starts her new job. In fact, former island caretaker Ben Southall called it "the world's busiest job" and he was right. Since he arrived four years ago, he has been on TV and answered thousands of questions about his new life. He has also kayaked across the Great Barrier Reef where he was stung by a poisonous jellyfish! He has even married an Australian girl!

Elisa Detrez, who is fluent in four languages, has degrees in Business Management Tourism and Political Science. She has lived in Spain, New Zealand and Germany.

When interviewed by our team, she declared Queensland was a most amazing place and winning the Best Job in the World competition was a dream come true. "My friends back home are going to be really jealous", she said.

*zip-lining = tyrolienne
